Theme Parks CALIFORNIA DREAMIN'

When historians chronicle the early achievements of the 21st century, they won't overlook a new revolution in entertainment. That's because the year 2001 will mark the debut of Disney's California Adventure, a spectacular 55-acre theme park that will be located next to its older sister, Disneyland. We non-historian types will be headed for Southern California and one of the events of the 21st century.

Disney's California Adventure is a total celebration of the golden state. The Hollywood Studio District features a Superstar Limousine Tour and a backstage look at moviemaking. Golden California reveals the natural wonders of the state—including hang-gliding and white-water-rapids. On the Boardwalk you'll find those classic ocean park rides as well as surfers shooting the curl. There's even a Waterfront Village (as seen in the rendering above).

Throw in a new hotel, a resort plaza, and opportunities to shop-til-you-drop and you have the premiere party event of the 21st century.

Making Magic IMAGINEERING

Who designs and builds a theme park like Disney's California Adventure, the premiere party place of the 21st century?

They're a band of brave souls who believe there is no such thing as a bad idea; they're a band of brave souls whose talents encompass art and architecture, concrete and the concrete. (They even do rebar!) They're Disney Imagineers, and on October 31, Hyperion Books publishes their amazing saga in Walt Disney Imagineering: A Behind the Dreams Look at Making the Magic.

Written by the Imagineers themselves, Walt Disney Imagineering takes you through the critical steps of the creative process, from the initial spark to the developing fantasy, from the blood, sweat, and tears needed for inventing new technology to making it real, breaking ground and pouring concrete. Finally there is the magic itself, which lies at the heart of every Imagineering achievement.

Walt Disney Imagineering is beautifully illustrated and stirringly told, a true "behind the dreams look at making the magic" that has enchanted millions.

Movie Magic from Walt Disney Pictures 101 DALMATIANS

It was 17th in the Disney hit parade of animated classics when it premiered in theatres 35 years ago. Back then, a new technology called xerography had revolutionized animation technique. The film also boasted a magnificent character, arguably Disney's finest villain(ess).

On November 27 (the day before Thanksgiving), 101 Dalmatians returns to theatres—in a live-action version that features 101 of the cuddliest canine co-stars to ever grace the silver screen. And bringing Cruella De Vil to life (or, more accurately, to flesh and blood) is none other than Glenn Close.

Just as the animated original boasted unique movie magic, so does its live-action descendent. Written and produced by John Hughes, the film not only features 101 Dalmatians but also a cast that includes Airedales, English sheepdogs, horses—even raccoons, squirrels, cows, pigs, sheep and tigers.

Famous animal consultant Gary Gero had the task of supervising all those animal actors—and making sure that all the animals were well cared for.

Of course we'll take you behind the scenes of the making of 101 Dalmatians, beginning November 24. And on Friday, November 29, The Disney Channel goes to the dogs for two days of great movies and specials with our 101 Canine Countdown.

Fall Harvests

AS THE DAYS GET COOLER AND SHORTER, it's time to enjoy the simple things of the season: the first sweet sip of fresh apple cider, hayrides at a country fair, an afternoon spent searching for that legendary great pumpkin (or two).

In this issue of "Families," find out how to capture one of Fall's greatest treasures—apples—at orchards across the country. It involves more than just picking fruit: many sites combine the harvest with fun festivals, including everything from country music to craft demonstrations and old-fashioned children's games.

We'll also offer you five tips on how to throw together a simple but memorable neighborhood Halloween party, complete with scary spider webs, great party games, frightening food, and supervised trick-or-treating.

Learn how parents are finding peace of mind in busy times by using pagers to stay in touch with babysitters, school officials, and teens. (Pager use has more than doubled since 1990.) See, too, how families are using cyberspace and get ideas on how to go online if you're not there yet.

From country fairs to cyberspace: everyone at The Disney Channel Magazine wishes you a good Fall, with free time from life in the fast lane.

Daytripping: Fall Festivals

NOTHING SAYS FALL LIKE AN ORCHARD.

It's easy to make a day out of a trip to an apple orchard. Many spots go out of their way to make your visit a simple, special event for the whole family.

At 200-year-old Montgomery Place, in Annandale-on-Hudson, New York, the orchards are open throughout the season, but the second weekend of October is the annual harvest fair, complete with hayrides, fresh produce, country music, crafts demonstrations, and children's games. Families can take part in scarecrow making, pumpkin painting, and contests. The newly restored mansion is open for tours.

In Julian, California, October means Apple Days, with special cider-making demonstrations all month long.

But visiting an apple orchard is fun even at places without such fanfare, says Emily Darrow, program manager

GABE PALMER/THE STOCK MARKET

Fall means a celebration of harvest time, from searching a pumpkin patch for the Great Pumpkin (or twol) to picking apples in a laden orchard

- ☛ Halloween has been celebrated in the United States since the 1840s when the Irish, fleeing the potato famine, brought Halloween customs with them to the United States.
- ☛ According to Hallmark Cards, Inc., 26 million Halloween cards will be exchanged this year, making it the eighth most popular card-sending occasion.
- ☛ About 65% of Americans will decorate their homes for Halloween—making it second only to Christmas.
- ☛ Between $60 and $70 million will be spent on Halloween decorations and party accessories this year, according to industry estimates.
- ☛ Halloween will account for about $1.5 billion in retail sales this year.

at Montgomery Place.

"You get to see something that's still going on—agriculture—and children learn that produce just doesn't come from a supermarket," Darrow says. "People love it; I've never seen so many happy faces as I see at the orchard. It takes you back to a time you may only have read about."

Apple picking is usually simple. Wear comfortable shoes, jeans, and socks, and bring a sweater to layer since fall weather can be unpredictable. Most orchards provide simple containers and charge by the bushel.

Kids will enjoy everything, from playing tag around the trees to taste-testing the many different varieties of apples. "They'll also appreciate that harvesting is hard work; it takes some effort to get a bushel," says Darrow.

Some orchards provide picnic areas; others offer cider-making or craft demonstrations or distribute recipes for everything from baked apples to apple-sauce and apple pie. In some towns, the apple harvest is a major event, with concerts in the park, and bed-and-breakfasts geared to making the celebration memorable.

What do you do with all the apples? Bring a basket of them to work. Fill a bowl and leave them in the middle of the kitchen to tempt everyone to choose a healthy snack. Pull out the old family recipes. Simply store leftover apples in the refrigerator in perforated bags; don't rinse them until you're ready to eat them.

But don't be surprised if a bushel of apples disappears quickly. Orchard experts guarantee one thing: fruit you've harvested yourself tastes far better than anything you've ever bought at the market.

A FIVE-STEP NEIGHBORHOOD TRICK-OR-TREATING PARTY

It's not hard to turn Halloween into an out-of-this-world event: just invite your children's neighborhood friends to a trick-or-treating party. Here are five easy steps to make it do-able:

1. SET UP THE PARTY EARLY IN THE MONTH. Make a list of and design home-made invitations that can be stuck on each person's front door knob. Make a cone out of white (ghost-like), orange, or black paper, attach a paper handle, and slip the invitation in. Or set a mini-pumpkin by each door, with the invitation attached, or even painted right on the pumpkin. Have your guests come an hour or two before trick-or-treating starts, dressed in costume, of course.

2. PLAN A QUICK AND EASY LIGHT DINNER—like finger sandwiches—or invite the guests for trick-or-treating first, followed by hot cider and munchies afterwards.

(Remember, Halloween's on a Thursday this year—a school night—so start the party early). For punch: fill a metal bowl with dry ice; lightly sprinkle with water to create a chilly mist, and place a smaller metal bowl filled with punch on the top.

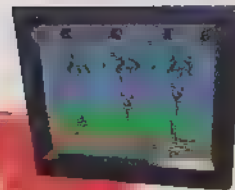

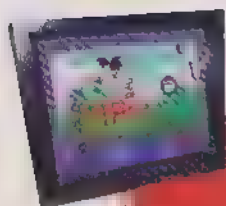

3. DECORATE! Anything goes. Drape

the entryway with mock spider webs. Put a scary tape on the stereo or have a horror video playing. Turn down the lights and place pumpkins along the front walk.

4. PLAN A GAME OR TWO. Blindfold each child, one at a time, and have them guess what slimy object is handed to them. (A grape? No, it's an eyeball. Candy? No way...it's a worm). Or dress up a parent like a fortune teller or a palm reader, and set aside a mystical corner for readings. Let guests swing at a treat-filled pumpkin or a ghostly pinata. Have a howling contest and give prizes for the most ghoulish sounds.

5. ORGANIZE THE TRICK-OR-TREATING by dividing the kids into groups of four or five per adult. Before heading out, talk about safety and basic rules: no running, stick together, don't eat candy until a parent has checked it, cross the streets all together. Give each child a light stick and bring plenty of flashlights. And have fun!

Pagers are the new parenting tool, allowing working parents to feel more secure, more confident, and more productive on the job; children and child-care providers find them empowering, too

For more information contact Montgomery Place, at (914) 758-5461, or the Julian Chamber of Commerce, (619) 765-1857.

Need to Know

PAGING POWER

Working parents today have a new parenting tool: it's a tool that reduces their anxiety while reassuring them that they'll be available for their children in an emergency. Pagers have given parents more confidence while reducing the uncertainties of daily life.

Take Sharon Sherman Littman, of Granada Hills, California. Littman has a two-year-old son and she works full time. She hated going out to lunch—what if the babysitter needs her?

Then, when Littman was on jury duty, her babysitter's husband was in a serious car accident and she couldn't reach Sharon. Littman immediately bought a pager—for a cost of about $90 a year.

"It bought me peace of mind," says Littman. "It's lightweight and it makes me more productive."

Littman is not alone; about 30 million people have pagers today, with more than 50 percent of those new paging customers employing pagers for personal use. The Paging Services Council reports that pager sales have recently risen by 28%; industry experts predict there will be 65 million new subscribers by 2003.

Parents give their pager number to day care centers, to school officials, to car-pool participants, and to friends. Kids page their parents to tell them they're ready to be picked up after Girl Scouts or soccer practice. Parents even

A PRIMER FOR CYBURBIA

NAME TODAY'S ONE-STOP SPOT where can you go shopping, find quick answers to parenting questions, check the latest headlines, mail a letter, play a game, search a reference book, check out the evening's Disney Channel programming, make airline reservations, and read a magazine? On the net.

JUST WHAT IS THE NET? The Internet is a global collection of computer networks. The Net is often accessed through major online services such as America Online, CompuServe or Prodigy. You can also access the Net through Internet-only services, companies such as NetCam or AT&T that provide direct connections the Net.

HOW BIG IS THE NET? To resort to contemporary slang, huge. In August, USA Today noted that a demographic survey by Nielsen Media Research indicated that one-quarter of those Americans who were 16 or older have Internet access. That could be as many as 48 million people.

HOW TO START: You need a modem-equipped computer and communications software. IBM-compatibles should run some version of Microsoft Windows. Macintosh computers should use at least the System 7 operating system. When it comes to modems, you're likely to be confronted with numbers. What's the advantage of a 28.8 modem over a 14.4? The numbers stand for kilobits per second—the amount of information that can be compressed and transmitted over the modem. (The modem links your computer to another system via a phone link.) The bigger the modem, the faster it "downloads" the material you want. A 14.4

modem can take a long time to download information. Think of that time as your threshold of pain.

ONLINE SERVICES: Get Internet access and other features for a monthly subscription fee (about $10 a month), with additional use charges. Most services offer a month's free trial. For more information, contact: America Online, at (800) 827-6364; CompuServe, at (800) 848-8199; Microsoft Network, (800) 386-5550; Prodigy: (800) 776-3449. Make sure, if possible, that there is a local access phone number to avoid long distance phone charges.

ON THE NEW FRONTIER: You've probably heard horror stories about the Net. It's a new frontier: it's unpoliced and you can encounter the unscrupulous. Here are some basics: children should always be supervised when they net surf. (You can buy software like Cybersitter and SurfWatch to help oversee their net visits). Be careful not to give anyone personal information such as address or your credit card number. Use common sense—and have fun...

remind teenagers of approaching curfews, or use a pager to ask their spouse to pick up a gallon of milk on the way home from work.

There are two kinds of pagers: the numeric type that display a 10- or 20-digit number on a small screen; and the alpha-numeric type that can receive words in addition to numbers. Numeric pagers can provide a telephone number of the caller or a pre-assigned code number with greater meaning—anything from "Go straight home" to "Call Mom." Alpha-numeric pagers allow callers to leave a voice message that is translated into words and numbers. Messages can be read when it's convenient.

Pagers typically cost about $100, with basic monthly service fees ranging from $10 to $15. Getting a pager involves two steps: buying the hardware—the paging device—and then selecting a service provider, such as Mtel, PageNet or Mobilecomm, national paging companies that provide local service and roaming capability.

Pagers are available from pager companies, retail outlets and consumer electronics stores; local classified telephone books carry listings for pagers, paging services, and beepers. The pager itself can be leased or purchased; the paging service is usually based on a monthly contract.

AT OUR HOUSE

With this issue, we introduce a new column written by Jude Schneider, who helps create original programming at The Disney Channel and is the mother of Jake (6) and Eli (4).

Being a working mother in television business can make you feel schizophrenic. I spend my time at work coming up with ideas that will encourage kids to watch television. But at home, I also worry that Jake and Eli might be watching too much television. So I've given some thought on how to make television and The Disney Channel work for us, for parents and family. I'd like to share some of my thoughts and experiences with you—thoughts on how to make family viewing more involving. I'd also like to hear your thoughts and experiences—you can write me here at The Disney Channel Magazine. To get the ball rolling, I thought I'd tell you about Jake Eli's experience with one of their favorite morning series.

UNDER THE UMBRELLA TREE One of Jake's and Eli's absolute favorite episodes of this playful series airs on October 5 at 9:30 a.m. (E/P). In "Iggy's Airline," Iggy leads Jacob, Gloria, and Holly in building an airplane. Jake and Eli (with leadership from their dad Mike) followed suit, building the airplane you see below. It took three large cardboard boxes (scavenged from an appliance store), lots of packing tape, and miscellaneous junk to create the instrument panel. The plane is big enough that the boys' small chairs fit in the "cabin." Jake and Eli christened this the "Brothers Airlines." They have kept it in the living room for months. (Only a Christmas tree is going to move that plane back into its hanger!)

NOSTALGIA RUSH TIME: I will admit my personal must-see movie in October and November has got to be The Harlem Globetrotters on Gilligan's Island (November 13 at 7:00 p.m. E/P). "Oh skipper..."

See you in December,

JUDE SCHNEIDER

ERECTOR JUNIOR. THE TOY THAT BUILDS FUN.

AFTER WATCHING "A GOOFY MOVIE" (check it out November 10), we should have known better. But how could we resist the notion: send Goofy and Max on an all-expenses paid vacation while they wrote about the sights and sounds of Walt Disney World's 25th anniversary celebration. They were early --and after looking at the pictures Max sent back, we knew we had postcards from the edge.

Here birdie birdie! Dad proved to be a real swinger! (Hyuck, hyuck!) Actually, with that bogus club it turned out to be a bogey day of golf. At least I got to drive the cart! Screamin'!

GOOFY & MAX'S MADCAP ADVENTURES AT WALT DISNEY WORLD

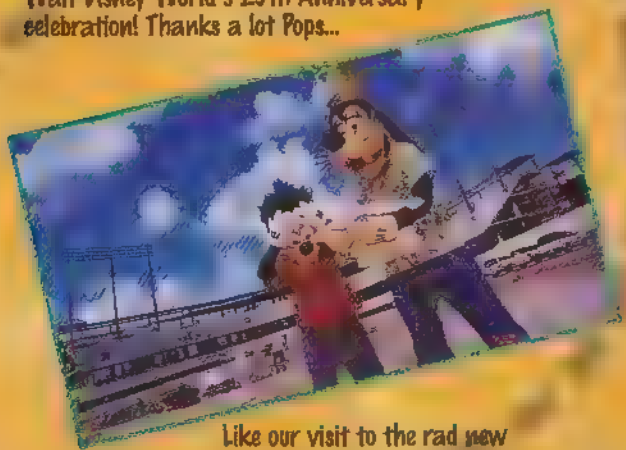

Planet Hollywood. Cool memorabilia. (Did Emilio Estevez really wear this in "The Mighty Ducks" or what?) They even had Powerline's costume from "A Goofy Movie!"

Dad whimps out and hides his head! I ride The Tower of Terror three times and free fallin' is jammin'! While I get lost in the Zone, Dad rides the monorail. Again and again. This is The Event of his trip or what?!?! (Unbelievable dude!)

Thanks to Dad's trusty way with a map and his one-of-a-kind timing, we were actually a bit early for Walt Disney World's 25th Anniversary celebration! Thanks a lot Pops...

Like our visit to the rad new International Sports Complex--we were so way early the place was still girders and a few seats.

"Ya-ha-hooie!" Really, my Dad's pretty cool. I just don't know where he gets those frosty clothes.

We had such a jammin' time at Walt Disney World that Dad and I are headin' back for the big 25th anniversary celebration! This time we'll be on time! (Dad says I can even ask Roxanne to come along --screamin'!) See you at the party!

THE TRUTH ABOUT GOOF

WITH A GOOFY MOVIE, Goofy finally landed the leading role in a feature film. As with all actors—live or toon—his path to stardom was neither sudden nor easy. Herewith is a look at the Goofster's salad days in Hollywood, when he was just another struggling nobody bedazzled by the show biz limelight.

IN THE BEGINNING—all the way back to the beginning, in 1932—the mutt wasn't even named Goofy. They called him "Dippy Dawg." That's when he appeared in a black & white cartoon, "Mickey's Revue." He also sported whiskers and a pince-nez (a double-barreled monocle that dangles around the neck.)

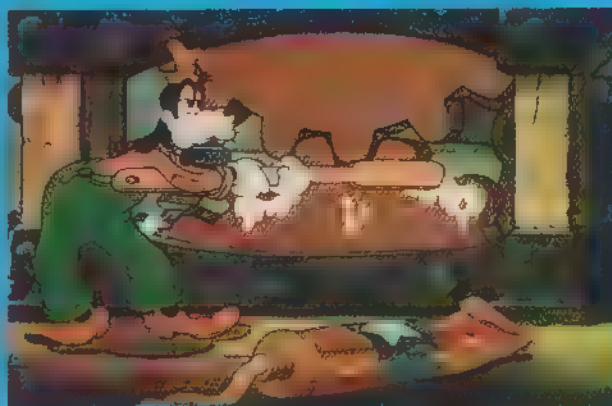

After that performance he could have ended up as another Hollywood wannabe, haunted by futile dreams of glory, of those long limousines and star-studded premieres at Graumann's Chinese Theatre.

Fate intervened.

Walt Disney liked his "Dippy Dawg." He had gusto. He had a laugh. ("Hyuck, hyuck.")

So the Dippy Dawg became a

AS WE 25 YEARS at Walt Disney World

THE TOP 10 TIMELINE

In which we survey 10 events that shaped Walt Disney World

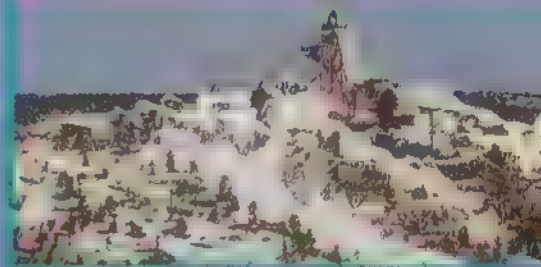

Walt and his brother Roy unveil the plans for what will become Walt Disney World. The initial concept calls for a Disneyland-type entertainment theme park and two model cities—one traditional, the other futuristic. The projected cost of Walt's dream: $100,000,000.

hole—opens at Fort Wilderness Campground.

Eight years after opening day, Walt Disney World marks a special milestone—its 100,000,000th guest. (Kurt Miller of Kingsville, MD, who is 8 years old.)

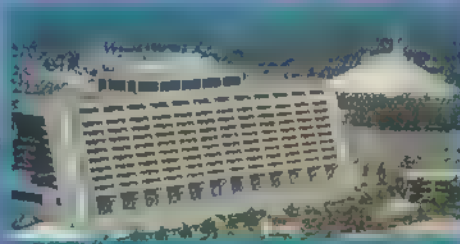

Lillian Disney, Walt's widow, is among the dignitaries who attend the opening of Epcot. Young adults from 23 nations pour a gallon of their country's water into the fountain as a symbol of world friendship. (Water comes from as far away as the Arctic Ocean and the Nile and Yangtze Rivers.)

The creation of a showcase for future technologies and cultures of the world—Epcot—is announced.

At 4½ She's Reading 3rd Grade Books

A child prodigy? Not at all! Your child, too can be reading one, two or three years ahead of age level...even if a "poor" reader now Prove it to yourself...with this 10 day free trial!

Reading is fun for Sarah—as it should be for every child. At age four-and-a-half she's already choosing her own books at the San Diego, Cal. library.

She reads books many third graders find "hard going." Yet she won't enter first grade for another year.

Sarah is typical of thousands of children who learned to read with "Listen and Learn with Phonics"—a reading kit that actually makes reading fun.

"Listen and Learn with Phonics" was developed by a reading expert. It has been endorsed, after extensive testing, by teachers, schools, and educators.

This practical (and inexpensive) home-learning kit fascinating eager young minds from three to ten. The child hears the letters or sounds on a cassette, sees them in a book and then repeats them. This makes an absorbing game of better reading—with amazing results.

For Example: Slow or average readers show sudden-often spectacular-improvement in reading and spelling. Older children often advance their reading skills several years beyond their age level. Young "pre-schoolers" actually teach themselves to read by this simple but startlingly effective method.

Special Parent's Guide
A 32-page Parents' Guide is included. However, you don't need special teaching skills to use this program. Nor do you need any special knowledge of phonics.

In fact, your child needs no special supervision on your part. This set is so simple, so fascinating, children can learn "on their own" without help.

10-Day Free Trial With Money-Back Guarantee!

Results are so dramatic, the publishers will make the complete kit available to your child with an equally dramatic FREE trial and guarantee.

Under the terms of this unusual offer you can test the kit for ten days. Unless you are pleased and satisfied in every way unless you see immediate results with your child, just return the set for a full refund of any money paid. Fill out and mail the coupon below today. If you wish to charge the kit to your credit card just check the coupon. There's no obligation, and six teaching games are included free—yours to keep whether you return the program or not. What Others Say

"I am tremendously pleased. My 5-year-old is reading very well and plan to begin with my 4-year-old. I am so glad I invested in this set. — Judy, Gay Stow, Oh

Last year I taught grades 1-4. I had a 6-year-old boy who came to 1st grade reading 6th-grade words. His father had taught him at home using your set. The father donated the set to our school. I was thrilled because some of the children need a lot of extra help with reading and phonics. — Janet Griffin, Triangle School, Apex, NC

What a happy Grandma I am! Since I ordered a Phonics set and had it mailed to my granddaughter Kim, and her 6-year-old sister, they are both making A's in school. — Mrs. Clarence Sparks, Clearwater, FL

Four years ago, I ordered your Phonics set for my 2 children, then ages 4 and 5. They are now top readers and spellers in their class. — Mrs. Nancy Cook, Santa Paula, Ca.

Your company has the best teaching method I have found. Thank you for offering such quality educational materials. — Mrs. Josephine Kish, Green Bay, Wis.

THE TRUTH ABOUT GOOFY

contract player at the studio, but something else was required if he was ever to become a star.

It started back in '34 when they were shooting a Mickey short, "The Orphan's Benefit." Walt Disney decided to give him a new name "Goofy." The Dawg took it as a compliment. A star was not quite born.

Bingo! In 1935 Goofy got a partner who understood him at last—animator Art Babbitt. Babbitt created the Goofster's breakthrough role in "Mickey's Service Station." The Goofster plays a mechanic who accidentally, uh, gooses himself.

The really Big Time began to beckon: from 1936 to 1938, Goofy gets equal billing with Mickey and Donald in "Moving Day," "Lonesome Ghosts," and "Clock Cleaners." The Duck protested and threatened to walk off the lot. Disney warned Donald that he was bound to the studio by contractual obligation. The Duck stayed put—he wanted to work in this town again.

'39 proved a good year: Goofy landed his first starring solo gig in "Goofy and Wilbur." Twenty-two years later, he even got a nod from Oscar for "Aquaman" in 1961. But after appearing in the 1965 short "Freeway Trouble," the Goofster didn't work for a decade.

His career picked up in the '80s and '90s. By then Goofy had become that most valuable Hollywood commodity, a veteran character actor who gave polished performances in such supporting roles as "Mickey's Christmas Carol" and "The Prince and the Pauper."

But the big time finally beckoned with his own TV show in 1992—Goof Troop. Then at last came the lead role in a feature film—A Goofy Movie. And it was (see for yourself).

One other thing made Goofy a legend in his own time. He was the only major player from the Disney Studio to be a father. His very own co-star was none other than his very own 11-year-old son! Maximilian Goof!

Of course, Goofy was merely 60 years old! But that's Hollywood!

An American Tail

STEVEN SPIELBERG & DON BLUTH'S ANIMATED AMERICAN SAGA

IN 1984, STEVEN SPIELBERG AND FORMER Disney animator Don Bluth joined forces to create a unique animated film—An American Tail. Developed from David Kirchner's original concept, the groundbreaking film told the American immigrant experience as an animated fable peopled by animals. It was the "tail" of Fievel Mousekewitz and his family, who bravely abandoned the strictures of the Old World for the limitless freedoms of the New World. (A move wonderfully captured in Papa Mousekewitz's song "There Are No Cats In America"). The result of this Spielberg-Bluth collaboration was a film of great animated beauty and great theatrical impact. "Animation," Spielberg said at the time, "is extraordinary because it frees the mind. It also frees the heart." Of their efforts on An American Tail, Don Bluth observed "Animation is itself beautiful when the colors are elaborately painted. But when that story works, I get very excited."

Take Off With The Blue Angels

JOHN TRAVOLTA NARRATES THIS 50TH ANNIVERSARY SALUTE TO THE FAMOUS FLYERS

THEY BELONG TO AN ELITE GROUP OF MEN," observes John Travolta at the beginning of America's Flying Aces: The Blue Angels' 50th Anniversary. "They are the finest pilots in the world." This fascinating special traces 50 years of spectacular aerial achievement, beginning with the team's genesis in 1946 as the Navy's elite aerial demonstration unit. (Trivia note #1: Their name came later and was actually taken from an advertisement found in the pages of "The New Yorker" magazine—an advertisement for a saloon. That gave Navy brass a fit!) But it's the sheer breadth of this special which is so exciting and dramatic, interweaving the Blue Angels' history with stunning aerial footage of the current team practicing, rehearsing, and performing one of their dynamic demonstrations. There's also a wonderful roll call of Blue Angels from years past, each pilot touting the model of plane that he flew at the time as the greatest plane of all time. This special represents 50 years of true-life "top gun" adventure!

FUTURE OSCAR NOMINEE AT WORK

ACTRESS KATE WINSLET made her second appearance in a feature film in A Kid in King Arthur's Court. While Winslet's role as Princess Sarah, King Arthur's eldest daughter, was a small one, the young actress may seem familiar to you. If so, that's probably because you last saw Ms. Winslet at this year's Academy Awards ceremony where she was in the running for an Oscar for Best Supporting Actress. Winslet received the nomination for her riveting performance as the tempestuous and neurotic Marianne Blackwood in Sense and Sensibility. As for her performance in Disney's comedy-adventure about a Valleyite transported to Camelot, "Kate was exactly what we were looking for," said Robert Levy, the film's writer and co-producer. "She was very proper and held herself very princess-like, very regally, which was very important for her character." But did Levy ever guess that he was working with a future Oscar nominee?

Wake Up Energized!

Frustrated With Your Sleep?

Do you toss and turn at night? Can't seem to find a comfortable position? Does your back ache when you awake? These are signs that your mattress may not be supporting you properly

SELECT COMFORT sleep systems comfortably contour to your body, support your back and spine close to its natural alignment, and reduce pressure points

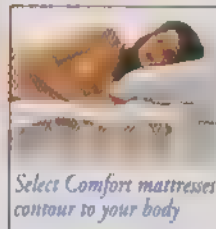

Metal coil mattresses can create uncomfortable pressure points and provide uneven support over time

With a Select Comfort Sleep System, you can each get the firmness you want

Tests show it also helps support your spine close to its natural alignment, which can lower the tension in the surrounding muscles. So you can sleep comfortably in most any position and wake feeling great!
